Q8: Do you agree to provide written materials that accompany the presentation to APAAC by May 1, 2015?	Yes

Q9: Please provide a paragraph description of presentation:

Approximately three hours in lenght, this course will begin with a review of the ethical rules, rules of criminal procedure, and case law defining prosecutorial misconduct. The review will distinguish between prosecutorial misconduct and prosecutor error, and provide a nuts and bolts approach to responding to motions for sanctions/motions to dismiss based on prosecutorial misconduct. Part 2 of the class will focus on examples in the courtroom and the students will be invited to judge whether the conduct is error or prosecutorial misconduct. Part 3 of the class will summarize the Arizona Justice Project and the role of prosecutors in seeking to exonerate those who have been wrongly convicted. This will include a review of the statutes and rules of criminal procedure requiring the preservation of evidence and claims to be filed.

Q10: Please provide a brief biography (about a paragraph) for the presenter(s):

I have been the Yavapai County Attorney since 2001 following my career in both civil goverment practice and prosecution in Arizona since 1982. In 2011, I tried State v. James Ray (aka "the sweat lodge" case) and was subjected to innumerable allegations of prosecutorial misconduct. My response to a very lenghty motion for new trial based on prosecutorial misconduct has made me very familiar with the law and our ethics on this topic.

Intermediate Advocacy
This course is designed for the prosecutor in the job long enough to process their caseload, win most of their trials, avoid being fired by their boss or jailed by their judge. Still, they sense that what will work in most of their trials, may not be enough or all they are capable of in those hard cases on the sword's edge between justice and a wrongful acquittal.

U.S. Supreme Court
A summary of the 2014-2015 U.S. Supreme Court decisions relevant to prosecution

Q10: Please provide a brief biography (about a paragraph) for the presenter(s):

Richard M. Wintory began his prosecution career in Oklahoma, where he practiced for more than 20 years as the Senior Assistant District Attorney for the Oklahoma County District Attorney's Office in Oklahoma City. Since moving to Arizona, Richard has served a number of prosecution offices including the Pima County Attorney's Office, the Attorney General's Office, and the Graham County Attorney's Office. Additionally, Richard has been a training consultant for the Arizona Prosecuting Attorneys' Advisory Council. Richard is now the Chief Deputy for the Pinal County Attorney's Office.

Since being recruited by the Pima County Attorney move to Tucson, Arizona a decade ago, Richard successfully prosecuted murderers, rapists, drug traffickers and cartel racketeers crossing Arizona's long border with Mexico earning Prosecutor of the Year twice in Arizona. He was given that honor by the Arizona Narcotics Officers Association in 2005 and by his colleagues in the Arizona Prosecuting Attorneys' Advisory Council in 2007. Then Attorney General Terry Goddard described him as, "one of the most experienced border crimes prosecutors in the country"

Richard is a nationally recognized speaker and trainer on prosecution and law enforcement topics. The National College of District Attorneys has honored him as a Lecturer of Merit and he has garnered awards of appreciation from the Drug Enforcement Administration, National Security Agency, Special Narcotics Prosecutor's Office of New York City, the Asset Forfeiture Office of the Department of Justice and many law enforcement and prosecutor agencies and organizations.

The presentation will focus on how to avoid potential issues regarding cooperating and non-cooperating witnesses. It will recommend ideas on how to deal with the court, the defense bar, and the law enforcement community especially in the context of cooperating witnesses. It will also address both routine witnesses and witnesses who are in the federal witness protection program and any differences there might be in the process because of this distinction.The lecture will progress through the free talk process, the signing of a testimonial agreement, the court conducting a change of plea hearing, the defense attorney conducting a defense interview and the witness' testimony during trial if a cooperating witness is involved. Lastly, it will provide valuable insight on maintaining the safety of cooperating witnesses and sentencing recommendations to consider making to a court.

Q9: Please provide a paragraph description of presentation:

If possible, a three hour time slot would be preferred. We would speak about the link between animal cruelty/neglect and human violence/neglect. Most serial killers have a history of abusing and killing animals. That is not to say that all people that abuse and kill animals will become serial killers. However, there is a strong link between animal cruelty and human violence. The course will provide information on how to investigate and prosecute animal cruelty and domestic violence cases. Sadly, oftentimes a victim of domestic violence will not appear at trial. If they cannot be located and/or cannot be personally served, the case must often be dismissed. However, if the officer and prosecutor are savvy and investigate animal cruelty cases (looking for signs of animal cruelty when dispatched to a domestic violence call), a conviction and probation can be secured based upon the animal cruelty charge. Further, just this month, the FBI announced that it will now be tracking animal cruelty cases. These cases will now have their own category in federal crime reports and will be included in the Uniform Crime Report. "No longer will extremely violence cases be included in the 'other offense' category simply because the victims were animals. Just as the FBI tracks hate crime and other important categories, we will now have critical data on animal cruelty." Therefore, the import of these cases cannot be stressed enough. It is important to push Arizona to the forefront of investigating and prosecuting animal cruelty cases. Oftentimes, it is not until a prosecutor takes these cases seriously that the law enforcement agencies will do so as well. Therefore, the presentation will allow prosecutors to not only train the officers in what to look for and who to contact in their investigations, but will also allow prosecutors to successfully prosecute both felony and misdemeanor animal cruelty cases and to relate these cases to domestic violence cases and human violence cases. The statistics are staggering for those that are in prison for violent offenses that have also abused or killed animals. (Other violent category crimes as well). There is so much information to cover which is why we are requesting the three hours. Also, we would like a "captive" audience in order to ensure that this important information is distributed to as many prosecutors as possible.

Q10: Please provide a brief biography (about a paragraph) for the presenter(s):

Kathleen Mayer has been with the Pima County Attorney's Office since 1986. Handling over 150 felony jury trials, she has prosecuted sex crimes, child abuse, homicides, sexual violent persons' commitments, and animal abuse cases.
She served as the Supervisor of the Sex Crimes Unit for 11.5 years. She has been a member of Southern Arizona Animal Cruelty Task Force since 2000 and has twice served as its co-chair. In that time she has travelled the state training law enforcement, veterinarians and other prosecutors in the investigation and prosecution of animal cruelty and neglect crimes.
Over the course of her career she has been honored 3 times by the Arizona Prosecuting Attorneys Advisory Council as Prosecutor of the Year, Victim's Advocate of the Year, and a Lifetime Achievement Award. The State Bar has recognized her contributions to the criminal justice community twice; receiving the President's Award and the Michael Cudahy Criminal Justice Award. Former Attorney General, Janet Napolitano has also recognized her trial advocacy skills by naming her its Sexual Assault Prosecutor of the year. In 2011 the Arizona Coalition against Sexual and Domestic Violence recognized her legislative contributions on behalf of domestic violence survivors through its Ocotillo Award. Since 2008 she has served as the Chief Legislative Liaison for the Pima County Attorney's Office. She is currently a member of the International Veterinary Forensic Science Association and HSUS Law Enforcement Council.
Mike Duffey is an animal cruelty investigator, educator, lecturer, and authority on animal cruelty prevention and investigations. He has spent more than 34 years with the Pima County Sheriff's Department in the roles of Detective, SWAT operator, nationally certified paramedic, and hostage negotiator. Upon his retirement from PCSD in 2007 he became the Animal Crimes investigator for the Humane Society of Southern Arizona. During his last 8 years with the Sheriff's Department, he was assigned as the first dedicated detective for Animal Crimes Investigations. He also was the Co-Founder of the Animal Cruelty Task Force of Southern Arizona (A.C.T.). Mr. Duffey also co-authored a training manual for animal crimes investigations (the TOOLS of Animal Cruelty Investigations), and has conducted training for several hundred law enforcement and animal control officers throughout the Southwest. Mike is currently an Honorary Member of the Arizona Veterinary Medical Association and on the board of directors for the following organizations: International Veterinary Forensics Sciences Association (IVFSA), Arizona Coalition for Equines (ACE), Equine Voices Rescue & Sanctuary, and The Humane LINK-Az., and the Arizona Professional's Animal Cruelty Taskforce (Phoenix). He is also a National Law Enforcement Council Member.

Alison Ferrante. Member of the State Bar of Arizona since 1997 and the State Bar of Florida since 1996. Certified to practice before the Federal District Court of Arizona. Member of the Animal Law Section of the State Bar of Arizona (Executive Council), Member of the Board of Directors of the Humane Link. Chair-Elect of Animal Law Section of the State Bar of Arizona June 2014), Founder and Chair of Arizona Professionals' Animal Cruelty Task Force (a program of the Humane Link). Member Child Abduction Response Team. Clerked for Judge John E. Davis, Pima County Superior Court Juvenile Division for one year and a prosecutor for the last fifteen years (Pima County Attorney's Office and Town of Gilbert Prosecutor's Office). Worked in a civil firm for a year as well right after law school and has been an adjunct professor for Chandler-Gilbert Community College since 2009 in the criminal justice department.

This seminar specifically for litigators comprises 100 tips, each illustrated with good and bad examples from motions and briefs filed in courts throughout the country. Both the class and its 516-page coursebook (now in its second edition and published by Oxford University Press) are full of pointers that even the most accomplished brief-writers will find useful. Participants learn how to:

- Plan briefing projects for maximal efficiency — whatever the time constraints
- Capture a judge's imagination with the first few words
- Avoid the mind-numbing conventions that make so many briefs boring
- Meet page limits with greater ease
- Counteract the exaggerated style of Rambo opponents
- Persuade judicial readers more reliably

Bryan A. Garner is the author of more than 20 books on legal writing and language in general. His magnum opus is the third edition of Garner's Modern American Usage, published by Oxford University Press. He is best known as editor in chief of the venerable Black's Law Dictionary, now in its tenth edition.

Since 1991, he has taught more than 125,000 lawyers, judges, and paralegals in continuing-legal-education seminars throughout the U.S. and abroad. His company, LawProse, Inc. of Dallas, is the country's largest provider of legal-writing and -drafting CLEs.

The late novelist and essayist David Foster Wallace, writing in Harper's, called Garner "a genius, though of a rather particular kind. . . . He's both a lawyer and a lexicographer (which seems a bit like being both a narcotics dealer and a DEA agent)."

Dear Ms. LaWall:

I am Dr. Perry Durham, State Veterinarian, with the Arizona Department of Agriculture (ADA). Three years ago I accepted this position. I decided to expend significant effort building bridges with other governmental agencies, including your office.

In these three years we have been able to update policies, replace equipment and hire additional staff. We now better fulfill our obligations to the public. Additionally we are of greater assistance to other agencies around the state.

The following are areas which I believe the Office of the State Veterinarian has significant roles to play and in which we may be able to assist each other:

Animal Neglect/Cruelty

- We continue working with the Arizona Horse Council conducting an Arizona POST-certified equine neglect class. This class has received considerable positive feedback from participants. As we have only 11 officers covering the state, I am hoping to multiply force by training more law enforcement officers in these skills.
- It has been suggested we create a similar training course for prosecuting attorneys. I would greatly appreciate any feedback you could give me on this topic.

Private Property Theft

- Cattle prices are at historic highs. The value of a typical range cow is now greater than $1000. The temptation for theft of livestock is growing rapidly, as are reports of theft activity in other states.

I also wanted to clarify a couple of points about which animals fall under ADA purview. For the most part it is livestock as defined in ARS § 3-1201 (excerpted below) which also gives range livestock the right to roam.

There are a few additional animals (bison and ratites) which are specifically named only in stray statutes (ARS §§ 3-1401, et sequens, the definition of which includes what may also be described as abandonment). Camelids such as llamas and alpacas are not within our purview. Lastly any animal or poultry falls under our purview in the case of controlling diseases (ARS § 3-1205B).

- ARS § 3-1201. Definitions

  In this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires:

  4. "Equine" means horses, mules, burros and asses.

  5. "Livestock" means cattle, equine, sheep, goats and swine, except feral pigs.

  6. "Livestock officer" means an animal health and welfare officer, animal health and welfare inspector or investigator employed by the department.

  7. "Poultry" means any domesticated bird, whether live or dead, and includes chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese, guineas, ratites and squabs.

  8. "Range" means every character of lands, enclosed or unenclosed, outside of cities and towns, upon which livestock is permitted by custom, license or permit to roam and feed.

  9. "Range livestock" means livestock customarily permitted to roam upon the ranges of the state, whether public domain or in private control, and not in the immediate actual possession or control of the owner although occasionally placed in enclosures for temporary purposes.

  10. "Ratite" means ostriches, emus, rheas and cassowaries.

- ARS § 3-1205. Control of animal diseases; violation; classification

  B. The state veterinarian may enter any place where a suspected animal or poultry may be and take custody of the animal or poultry for the purpose of determining the presence of a contagious, infectious or communicable disease.

- ARS § 3-1379. Notification required on seizure by government agencies

  All federal, state and local governmental agencies shall notify the department within two hours of any seizure of any livestock or property in or on which livestock is present or when a person responsible for the care of any livestock is taken into custody and the person from the federal, state or local governmental agency knows that the person taken into custody is responsible for the care of any livestock.

- ARS § 3-1401. Definition of stray animal

  "Stray animal" as used in this article means livestock, bison or ratites whose owner is unknown or cannot be located, or any such animal whose owner is known but permits the animal to roam at large on the streets, alleys, roads, range or premises of another without permission, except that this section does not apply to livestock where the principles of a federal permit, federal allotment or federal lease are in dispute.

I have included a roster with contact information for your use. I look forward to working together with you and your staff. If we can be of assistance, please contact our office. We would welcome the opportunity to brief your staff on matters such as equine neglect and how we could assist your staff in prosecuting these matters.

Ethics: An Prosecutor's Guide to Judicial Misconduct (90 minutes)
Rule 8.4 of the Rules of Professional conduct indicates that a prosecutor has an ethical obligation to report a judge that violates the applicable rules of judicial conduct and raises a substantial question regarding his fitness to hold office. Therefore it is incumbent for every prosecutor to be familiar with the rules of Judicial Conduct. In this interactive presentation prosecutors will gain a working knowledge of the rules of judicial conduct and we will review recent ethical decisions where judges were disciplined for judicial misconduct. We will also specifically review courtroom misconduct by judges in order that prosecutors can determine whether judges are overstepping their ethical boundaries.

Lies, Deceit and the Ethical Rules, Can Prosecutors Lie for the Public Good?
(90 Minutes)

An ax murderer has just brutally murdered three women and raped a third woman at gunpoint after having her watch him cleave up the body of one of his victims. He then held her hostage along with two others. He released the hostages and told them to contact the police. The ax murderer agreed to surrender if he could talk to a public defender before his surrender. Afraid that the ax murderer was an immediate danger to the public, an assistant prosecutor posed as a public defender to arrange the surrender and prevent his escape. This presentation examines whether prosecutors can bend or break ethical rules to protect the public good.
